Monsoon is one season that Bengalureans hold dear. Everyone celebrates the weather and the petrichor in their own way, and campus students are no exception. Bangalore Times spoke to students from campuses around the city and listed down their top dishes to dig in into when the skies get ready for some heavenly downpour.

NAME OF THE DISH: Cheese aloo paratha and Amritsari chole
COLLEGE: Symbiosis Institute of Management Bangalore (SIBM)
COST: ₹70

Satishkumar Bhatnagar, a second year MBA student from the college, says, "The dish is a hit among students because of the quantity and the flavour. For an economical price, we get two aloo-stuffed cheese parathas and chole. The dish is all about Punjabi flavours, which we all love and for a price like that, it's a steal."

NAME OF THE DISH: Momo Chaat, Vada Pav
COLLEGE: Jain University-CMS
COST: ₹40-70

Bharath K Narayanan, a final year student, says, "The momo chaat, vada pav and the cheese maggi served on campus are some of the most popular dishes that we like to have during rainy season. The food is freshly cooked, served hot and tastes delicious. What's even better is that the canteen guys customise food according to our tastes and likes."

NAME OF THE DISH: Tava pulao, vada pav and dosa
COLLEGE: Mount Carmel College
COST: ₹20-80

Sahana Venkatesh, a final year BBA student from the college says, "When it rains, you love to eat food that is hot and spicy and that is exactly what the canteen in our college serves. Right from vada pav to tava pulao, there is something for everyone. In addition to this, there is a stall that serves 99 varieties of dosa. You can experiment and try a different variety of dosa almost every day and it doesn't cost a bomb."
